

NO deal BREXIT Declaration

Page 1 of 1

Dear Customer,

With the departure of the UK from the European Union approaching we understand there may be some concern and apprehension about the impacts this could have, particularly in a case of a no-deal result. We of course share your concern and are following the evolution of on-going discussions and subsequent decisions very carefully, in order for us to try to anticipate the consequences that will follow.

In this uncertain situation ATAG Commercial, part of the ARISTON THERMO GROUP, has a privileged position having definitive control of the production, supply chain and distribution of its products, therefore giving us more autonomy to minimize the impacts of a no-deal Brexit.

Locally, our group is working on increasing stock levels both of finished products and raw material to prepare for the possibility of longer delivery times from the continent. Our technical departments are also working collaboratively with industry associations to mitigate any possible consequences on certification and requested labelling of our products.

In summary, we would like to reassure you we are taking all necessary measures to avoid any impacts to you as our clients, and would like thank you for your continued custom.

Yours sincerely,

Emiliano Gabrielli
